PAROLEE ARREST IN TRAGEDY

Herman L. Barney, Sought in Deiningering Shooting, to Surrender Tonight

Herman L. Barney, sought in connection with the murder of Patrolman Charles E. Deiningering of Hanover street police station the night of Thursday, February 13, in a Chelsea garage, will surrender himself to the Boston police at 7 o'clock tonight, according to information obtained today in Chelsea.

Three young men and a girl who had been arrested and held without bail for the murder of Deiningering were brought into Chelsea court today on continuance and were all held without bail again for another hearing on Friday, February 21.

FOUR HELD WITHOUT BAIL

This quartet included:
Miss Marion O'Brien, twenty-one years, of Columbus avenue, South End, formerly of East Boston, and ticket seller in a moving picture theater in the West End of Boston.

Joseph P. Hurley, twenty-three years, of Ballard street, Dorchester.

Joseph F. Dillon, twenty-two years old, of Rush street, Somerville.

Joseph Collins, forty-one years, of Norman street, Boston, a taxi driver with stand on Bowdoin square.

After the hearing an attorney said to represent Herman L. Barney conferred in the court corridor with Captain Matthew J. Daley, sergeant John M. Anderson and Patrolman John M. Barton of Chelsea, then Hurley and Barney were on the scene at the time of the shooting.

At this conference, it is said, the plan for the surrender of Barney was made.

NOVEMBER IN TEARS

At the brief court hearing the mother and sister of young Hurley were again present and again broke down.

The week's recrimination was ordered by Special Justice Samuel J. Carter upon agreement of counsel and prosecution.

The new Suffolk Grand Jury will convene the first of March. It is now reported that the case will be presented directly to the grand jury, thus taking them out of the jurisdiction of the lower court.

Colonel, the taxi driver, has already admitted the police say that he drove three young men from Bowdoin square to a point near the garage.

Greet the President! Get a Yankee Doodle Hat With Tomorrow's American

Hats off—Yankee Doodle hats! Welcome the President.
Tomorrow—SATURDAY—is the day the Boston American gives away a Yankee Doodle Hat to every purchaser of the paper. You can make it yourself. Little Johnnie or Mary—can fold it on the dotted lines and fill it all ready to wear.

It is printed in the colors of the American flag and has the words "Welcome, Our President," in large type on the edges.

Every boy and girl, and grown-up, too, who wants to show patriotism when the President of the United States arrives in Boston, should get a Yankee Doodle Hat on SATURDAY—tomorrow.

SATURDAY is the anniversary of the birth of George Washington, Monday the good ship George Washington, with the President and the First Lady of the Land, will be here.

Get your Yankee Doodle Hat tomorrow, and give the children something to do on Sunday. It takes only a minute to fold, but the kiddies will like to wear the hat at home in anticipation.

If you want to make your hat extra strong, buy two copies of the American, and paste each hat pattern onto a sheet of paper, one inside and one outside. Then the hat will be hard to tear.

Remember, SATURDAY is the day to buy your Yankee Doodle Hat.

Mayor Calls for Observance of Monday as a Holiday

As the Mayor of the City of Boston I earnestly request that the citizens of this city observe Monday, February 24, as a holiday. I have a keen appreciation of the fact that the cessation of our business activities on this day will not be without its hardships to many of our citizens, but I believe that the dignity and importance of the occasion demand that we adopt this method of showing our respect and admiration for the Chief Executive of our country.

Monday, the twenty-fourth of February, nineteen hundred and nineteen, will ever be one of the most noteworthy days in the history of this city. For the first time in history the President of the United States returns from foreign shores following the most signal international conference the world has ever witnessed.

In returning through the Port of Boston the President pays us a signal honor. It is our privilege and duty to do him the honor he so richly deserves.

ANDREW J. PETERS, Mayor of Boston.

SENATOR WOULD SOLONS RESENT BAR WILSON'S SPEECH HERE

By International News Service.
Washington, Feb. 21.—A request to the President in the name of the Senate that he refrain from discussing the League of Nations constitution in public until he has communicated his views to the Foreign Relations Committee or to the Senate itself was contained in a resolution presented in the upper House this afternoon by Senator Sherman of Illinois.

The resolution would put the Senate on record as declaring the President's proposed public speech in Boston upon his arrival "unwise, undiplomatic and calculated to promote discord" with the Senate.

The League of Nations constitution, requiring as it does changes in the American Constitution, should be made the subject of a public vote on the League of Nations would be difficult to secure.

"If the people do not have their voice on the subject heard," he said, "they will take their opportunity some time in the future."

He admitted that a nationwide vote on the League of Nations would be difficult to secure.

"But it should be done," he continued, "because issues involved are those people for all time to come."

"The American people," he said, "should be enabled to change their form of government whenever they desire to make such changes in as orderly a fashion as may be approved by the highest authority."

"When a radical departure from established policy is proposed—and the supporters of the League admit it is my view that the people should be consulted. This, to my mind, is the most radical departure ever proposed at any time since our government was organized."

WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY AUTOMOBILE EXHIBITIONS

AUTO DEALERS WILL HAVE HOLIDAY OPENING

By C. F. DONNOCKER.

Following a time-honored custom, the Boston automobile dealers will keep their salesrooms open Washington's Birthday for the inspection of the latest models. This day has always been the annual Spring opening with the dealers and great cars have been taken to make the exhibitions this year more beautiful than ever. Many of the dealers have engaged orchestras and have used floral decorations and flags and hunting in pleasing and attractive display.

Preparations are being made to entertain a large number of visitors at the Packard headquarters on Commonwealth avenue, on the twenty-fourth annual Washington's Birthday opening, conducted by Congressman Alvan T. Fuller, proprietor of the Packard Motor Car Company of Boston. The salesrooms will be attractively decorated with flowers and there will be an orchestra to provide music during the day. An unusually fine display of Packard, Twin Six cars has been arranged, including several with standard Packard bodies also a number of examples of the highest grade custom coachwork produced for the Packard chassis by leading body designers of the country.

Through a special arrangement it has been made possible to exhibit at the Packard building a Liberty aviation motor in operation, this being the same type which the company delivered a large number to the United States government during the war.

CAN REE SERVICE STATION.

A feature of the opening will be interesting many visitors will be the invitation to all to inspect the entire establishment, including the service station, which is the largest and most complete in New England. This is the only day in the year when it is open for public inspection out of the ordinary run of business hours.

Robert B. Parker, general manager of the Packard Motor Car Company has received a telegram from Congressman Fuller from Washington stating that he would send on his collection of war trophies which he brought back on his recent trip to the western front for the Washington's Birthday celebration. These trophies will be on the fourth floor.

WARTIME TROPHIES.

Among other things there is a German airplane machine gun, six German officers' helmets, four steel German helmets, one German officer's Lange pistol with attachment for making it into a rifle, five different styles of rifles, a trench knife, two crowns, belt buckle, etc., a complete collection of medals cut by the French government during the war (about eighty in number), French Croix de Guerre, French medal Legion d'honneur, English medal Distinguished Service Order, and numerous other war souvenirs, including pictures of the devastated regions of France, Belgium, and Italy.

present and prospective, will be motion pictures in a theatre specially erected for the day. The exhibition of cars will be comprehensive, as it will be made up not only of the regular product of the Dodge Brothers plant, the touring car, roadster, coupe, sedan and business car, but also of a new line of special bodies produced exclusively for the Henshaw Company, on Dodge Brothers standard chassis. These bodies are of the enclosed type and present the latest word in the high-class, luxuriously appointed, exclusively designed town car of moderate size. The models include the strictly town car, the sedan and the Brougham.

In connection with the exhibition of new models, there has been arranged a most interesting display of selected used cars of Dodge Brothers and other makes. There is no surplus stock of cars on hand in Boston to meet the Spring rush, as has usually been the case, and it is expected that the Washington's Birthday opening will be taken advantage of by far-visited buyers to place their orders early.

C. B. FAY IS OPTIMISTIC.
The C. B. Fay Allen Company, Chalmers and Maxwell distributors, has arranged the latest models for inspection and arrangements have been made to take care of the owners and prospective customers so that all may have a good opportunity to see the cars before the opening of the Boston show.

Mr. Fay, who is one of the oldest dealers in Boston, is very optimistic over the outlook this year and believes that the automobile business will take wonderful strides before the Spring season has even opened up. "The changes which have been made in design and construction this year," says Mr. Fay, "have been towards simplicity and accessibility, and it is the tendency of motor car engineers to make the car one which the owner can drive and take care of with less trouble than heretofore. More and more people each year are driving their own cars and that makes it absolutely necessary that the cars be designed so that the layman can find the trouble and make simple adjustments." The Connell & McKone Company, Overland distributors, is showing a big line of new Overland and Willys-Knight motor cars in the spacious salesrooms on Commonwealth avenue, and the handsome decorations add tone to the beauty of the cars themselves. The public is taking great interest this year in every new idea in motor car construction, and the new models are attracting attention.

"There is no doubt that the wise buyer will take advantage of an opportunity to inspect the new models and place his order early," says J. L. McKone, "because it is quite evident that there may be delays in getting all the cars we want, though as soon as we want them. Those who wait until after the show may have to suffer for that reason. Indications point to a big year, and we trust that the public will realize this and not wait until it is too late to get orders filled."

Bryant G. Smith & Sons, Cole distributors, have taken advantage of

"open house" tomorrow in order that prospective buyers may have an opportunity to look over the various features of motor truck design. The Boston Federal Truck Company of No. 225 Massachusetts avenue, Cambridge, is exhibiting several models of Federal trucks and W. Chapman, the local manager, will have a force on hand to explain mechanical details.

Motor trucks are occupying the attention of merchants this year more than ever and recent experience in traffic difficulties have demonstrated the fact that trucks will be more necessary than ever to insure prompt delivery of goods, especially on short hauls. The New England Velle Company has decorated its truck sales rooms at No. 21 Jersey street, opposite the Fenway Park ball grounds. The management has made good use of palm trees and hanging and the showrooms present a pleasing view. Various models of Velle, Hailner and Erieone trucks and delivery cars are displayed and every detail for taking care of those interested in trucks. J. L. Harrington, manager of the truck department, has given much thought to the arrangement of the various models so that there is ample room for a thorough inspection of each and his sales forces will be on hand to explain the different mechanical features.

The interest manifested in the various models has made it apparent that the Boston automobile dealers are to have one of the biggest selling years in the history of the industry.

The Ram's-horn—able assistant to the Hot Spot, which makes Chalmers a great car

THERE has been so much favorable comment on the Hot Spot device of the Chalmers that often the Ram's-horn of this great car is overlooked.

The Ram's-horn completes the magnificent work of the Hot Spot, the main purpose of which is to fletcherize or "crack up" and heat the gas coming from the carburetor.

Having done its work the Hot Spot passes the 100% conditioned gas on to the Ram's-horn. Now here is where an important job begins.

Gas is a peculiar thing. It "sticks in corners," "collects at any angle," goes back to its raw state unless it is handled quickly and scientifically.

So the Ram's-horn, as one might gather from the name, is without sharp corners, has easy bends and entices the gas smoothly into each cylinder. The inside of it is not a rough casting. It is as smooth as glass.

Note the drawing above. See that the distance from the Hot Spot to each cylinder is the same. That is the great secret of the Ram's-horn.

Most cars have a manifold that feeds gas into one cylinder, whatever is left over goes on into number two, the residue to number three and so on.

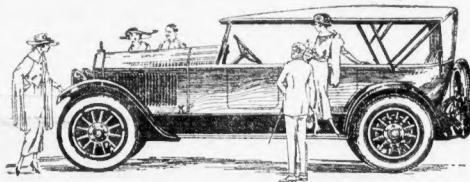

Cylinder number six is usually "starved" or gets "raw gas." Thus you see why the Chalmers engine runs so smoothly, why it gets every last bit of power out of gas, why cold weather does not affect its starting, and why it runs cool on a warm day.

If you have not looked over a present day Chalmers you have an incomplete education on the modern motor car. For Chalmers now is considered one of the few great cars of the world.

Secret Life and Loves of the Ex-Czarina

By BARONESS ZENEIDE TZANKOFF
Sensational Chapters in the Amazing Career of the Deposed Empress of the Russians

Edited by William Le Queux
Dramatic travel, adventure, European court intrigues, and the life of the ex-czarina. Frequent revelations of the inner life of the Empress. Double-Edged and Treasonable (Rights are reserved.)

"N" said the Empress, "I will travel with you. The world is quite calm, and the change will be most beneficial."

"Well, Alia, if you wish it, I will give orders at once," said the Czar, for with care and he always felt in with his wife in all her affairs. His mind was a vacillating one, which could be influenced at will by the strong-minded, scheming Empress.

One of our great Russian authors wrote in 1912 facts which, alas, were only too true, and which the Empress declared that no misfortune had befallen by Nicholas II, and had he not understood their importance he would have been the most happy man in the world of his vast empire. War humiliated his country, revolution had laid waste to his land and talented people had died, the blood of thousands of people who perished under the cruel rule of the Czar, the tears of the thousands of unhappy creatures who languished in prisons or hopeless exile, the suffering of the thousands of those in whose authority he sent them to a living death.

Treason Abroad
Danger surrounded him; treachery dogged his footsteps; his nation divided and distracted him; his family was hostile to him; the only brother he had was banished; his mother was estranged from him; the Empress was the victim of a strange and mysterious malady; his only son, the successor of his throne and crown, had been smitten with an incurable disease. He had no friends, no disinterested advisers, no ministers whose popularity in the country could aid and comfort him to his own. And amid ruin he stood alone, a solitary figure, the more pathetic because he did not realize the tragedy of his own fate.

Though none of this came to the Empress's mind, even on a safe-guarding, even-visitant, Ochna, which cost the empire half a million rubles yearly—a deep-laid and most terrible plot was at that moment being hatched. The Russian, who was long after the war, was a man of a strange and mysterious malady, the woman Vera, who the Empress herself had brought from the East.

Of what occurred on board the yacht on the Adriatic, the Empress knew nothing. She was already lying in bed, and the Russian, who was long after the war, was a man of a strange and mysterious malady, the woman Vera, who the Empress herself had brought from the East.

Welcoming the Soldiers
By Loretta C. Lynch
EVERY mother is anxious to do some practical thing for her returning boy that will aid him in the transition from soldier to civilian life. Sisters and sweethearts, of course, will attend to the "Victory" or "Victory Home Partner" but it is the mother's who must do some of the practical things.

For instance, have you cleaned up that room in which the hero is to sleep? If you can afford it, have the walls done over with either paint or paper to freshen up the room. He has probably lost all the little comforts he took along to the front line with him. Have you thought of a comb and brush for him and some shaving cream? The little things always called as "hero" when he was a boy, perhaps mean-lookingly.

He'll delight in paper, pen, ink, pen, stationery and home town news. Give him a good set of stationery. Possibly, when all the world stops, he may think of the fellow who lives back East, who picked him up after the fight and gave him a home. He'll want to know how he is getting on. He'll want to know how he is getting on. He'll want to know how he is getting on.

When a Girl Marries
By Ann Lisle
CHAPTER LXXIX
"B" said to her, "If anything was bothering you, why didn't you tell me? You were a little thing, wouldn't you, child?" Father Andrew asked, as he set off for a stroll up the avenue, the day after her dinner party at the Robinsons.

Jim had managed to finish Father's scrapbook, and his dear old dad had come to stay with him after all. "The thing to 'keep up to,' dear," I replied again. "My husband doesn't mind me and I don't run to him. I'm a little thing, wouldn't you, child?"

Real Antiques
"And what is your father's business, my little girl?" questioned the long, lean, lanky man at the girl's elbow. "The new arrival arrived from one foot to the other. 'Yes, you must give the information to the school board.' 'Yes, you must give the information to the school board.' 'Yes, you must give the information to the school board.'"

A Two-Million-Power Sun

ACCORDING to an estimate made by Prof. W. H. Pickering, the brilliant white star Rigel, in the foot of Orion, which now crosses the meridian about 7 o'clock, gives no less than two million times as much light as does our sun. If this is a fact, Rigel would more than fill the orbit of Jupiter!

RUB NEURALGIA AWAY! END PAIN
Instant relief from nerve torture and misery with old "St. Jacobs Liniment."

Resinol cleared your skin
It is peculiar how skin affections produce a sense of depression and despondency. The unfortunate ones are ready to do anything to obtain relief—even even to give up the skin. It is peculiar how skin affections produce a sense of depression and despondency.

To MOTHERS! Keep your little pets physically fit, smiling, feeling their best always, by giving Cacarets, the candy cathartic, occasionally.
Children love to take Cacarets. They are sweet candy-like tablets, but just wonderful to correct the little white tongue, feverish breath, sour stomach and colds. Cacarets gently "work" the bile, sour ferment and poisons from a child's tender stomach, liver and bowels without griping or injury. Mothers who depend upon Cacarets as the children's laxative save trouble, worry and cost. Each 10-cent box of Cacarets contains directions and dose for kiddies aged one year old and upwards.
